PATENT SOLID
COTTON BELTING!
HAVING received the Agency for the sale of this Belting, the subscriber would call the attention of Mill Owners, Machinists, and others interested in the use of an efficient and cheap Belt to samples which may be seen at his counting-room, Lower Steamboat (Coe's) Wharf.
This Belting is formed by weaving several layers of Duck solid in one body, and like leather it partakes of the strain in all its parts, and gives a gain of power over every other kind in passing the pulley. It is especially adapted for open Belts, and for heavy and main Belts, while its elasticity allows it to be used on very small pulleys, and where quick speed is required. It can be made of any desired length without lap or joint. The cost of this Belting, being about one half that of leather, will recommend it to the attention of every customer. Any width, from 1 to 28 inches, furnished, and extra width and thickness made to order.

SLATE!
THE Bangor and Pleasant Slate Company having completed their arrangements for the manufacture of SLATE SLATE, are prepared to receive orders for any dimension which may be required, from a "paper weight" to a "Billiard Table."
The endless variety of uses to which this article may be applied, will readily occur to the artizan, and indeed to every observer of the progress of modern improvement in the arts of life.
Counters for Shops, Shelves, Hearths, Tables for Printers, Black Boards for Schools, are among the many purposes for which this article will be in demand.
The peculiar texture or grain of the stone from the Brownville quarry, being entirely free from those shards, or tree grains, which are apt to disfigure almost all other slates, renders the surface of the manufactured article smooth and true; and it is instanted, and probably will not be denied, that it is the best Slate in the known world.
Having recently filled an order for Messrs. Wheeler & Lynde, of the Whig and Courier, they have kindly permitted their Tables to be examined at their office.
The Company can also supply almost any quantity and size of Roofing Slate, and solicit orders to any of the branches of their business. Specimens at their office. Apply to O. B. ABBOT,

Whig and Courier.

"The Murder of the Innocents."

Under this somewhat startling title, I write in the Atlantic Monthly addresses a second epistle to "Dolorosus," in which he sets forth pretty strongly the injurious effects of overtaxing the mental powers in the young. We can make room only for a few extracts,—but recommend them to the thoughtful consideration of all who may have charge of the rising generation:

Sir Walter Scott, according to Carlyle, was the only perfectly healthy literary man who ever lived. He gave it as his deliberate opinion, in conversation with Basil Hall, that five and a half hours form the limit of healthful mental labor for a mature person.

The late Dr. Woodard, of Worcester, said, that children under eight should never be confined more than one hour at a time, nor more than four hours a day; and that, if any child showed alarming symtoms of precocity, it should be taken from school altogether. Dr. James Jackson, of Boston, allowed the children four hours schooling in winter, and five in summer, but only one hour at a time, and heartily expressed his detestation of the principle of giving young children lessons to learn at home. Indeed, the one thing about which doctors do not disagree is the destructive effect of premature or excessive mental labor.

The year 1854 is memorable for a bomb-shell then thrown into the midst of the triumphant school system of Boston, in the shape of a solemn protest by the city physician against the ruinous manner in which the children were overworked. Fact, feeling, and physiology were brought to bear, with much tact and energy, and the one special point of assault was the practice of imposing out-of-school studies, beyond the habitual six hours of session. A committee of inquiry was appointed. They interrogated the grammar-school teachers. The innocent and unsuspecting teachers were amazed at the suggestion of any excess. They supposed that "commonly the ill health that might exist arose from other causes than excessive study;" one attributed it to the use of confectionery, another to fashionable parties, another to the practice of "chewing pitch,"—anything, everything, rather than admit that American children of fourteen could possibly be damaged by working only two hours a day more than Walter Scott. However, the committee thought differently. So, by their influence, was passed that immortal Section 7 of Chapter V. of the School Regulations, as follows:

"In assigning lessons to boys to be studied out of school-hours, the instructors shall not assign a longer lesson than a boy of good capability can acquire by an hour's study; but no out-of-school lessons shall be assigned to girls, nor shall the lessons to be studied in school be so long as to require a scholar of ordinary capacity to study out of school in order to learn them."

In the report of the Boston sub-committee to which I have referred, it was expressly admitted that the restrictions recommended "would not alone remedy the evil." Some few of the masters had previously admitted the same thing: "The pressure from without, the expectations of the committee, the wishes of the parents, the ambition of the pupils, and an exacting public sentiment, do tend to stimulate many to excessive application, both in and out of school."

If these children have half their vitality taken out of them for life by premature and excessive brain-work, it makes no difference whether it is done in the form of direct taxation, or of indirect, whether they are compelled to do it by authority, or allured into it by excitement and emulation. If a horse breaks a blood-vessel by running too hard, it is no matter whether he was goaded by whip and spur, or ingeniously coaxed by the Hibernian method of a lock of hay tied six inches before his nose! The method is nothing,—it is the pace which kills. Probably the last is, that for every extra hour directly required by the teacher, another is indirectly extorted in addition by the general stimulus of the school. The best scholars put on the added hour, because they are the best,—and the inferior scholars, because they are not the best. In either case the excess is destructive in its tendency, and the only refuge for individuals is to be found in a combination of fortunate dullness with happy indifference to shame. But is it desirable, my friend, to construct our school-system on such a basis that safety and health shall be monopolized by the stupid and the shameless?

Look at it! as now arranged, committees are responsible to the public, teachers to committees, pupils to teachers,—all pledged to exact a maximum crop from childish brains. Each is responsible to the authority next above him for a certain amount, and must get it out of the victim next below him. Constant improvements in machinery perfect and expedite the work; improved gauges and mottres (in the form of examinations) compute the comparative yield to a nicety, and allow no evasion. The child cannot spare one hour, for he must keep up with the other children; the teacher dares not relax, for he must keep up with the other schools; the committees must only stimulate, not check; for the eyes of the editors are upon them, and the municipal glory is at stake: every one of these, from highest to lowest, has his appointed place in the tread-mill, and must keep step with the rest; and only once a year, at the summer vacation, the vast machine stops, and the poor remains of childish brain and body are taken out and handed to anxious parents (like you, Dolorosus):—"Here, most worthy tax-payer, is the dilapidated residue of your beloved Angelina; take her to the sea shore for a few weeks, and make the most of her."

Do not you know that, foreigners, coming from the contemplation of races less precociously intellectual, see the danger we are in, if we do not? I was struck by the sudden disappointment of an enthusiastic English teacher, (Mr. Calthrop,) who visited the New York schools the other day, and got a little behind the scenes. "If I wanted a stranger to believe that the Millennium was not far off," he said, "I would take him to some of these grand ward-schools in New York, where able heads are trained by the thousand. I spent four or five days in doing little else than going through these truly wonderful schools. I said more than three hours in one of them, wondering at all I saw, admiring the stately order, the unbroken discipline of the whole arrangement, and the wonderful quickness and intelligence of the scholars. That same evening I went to see a friend, whose daughter, a child of thirteen, was at one of these schools. I examined her, and found that the little girl could hold her own with many of larger growth. 'Did she go to school to-day?' asked I. 'No,' was the answer, 'she has not been for some time, as she was beginning to get quite a serious curvature of the spine; so how she goes regularly to a gymnastic doctor!'"

"I am sure that we have all had the same experience. How exciting it was, last year, to be sure, to see Angelina at the grammar-school examination, multiplying mentally, $51,426 by 236,145, and announcing the result in two minutes, and thirteen seconds as 82,987,492,770! I remember how you stood trembling as she instigated under the interested lead, and how your cheek hung out the red flag of parental exultation when she came out safe. But which I looked at her colorless visage, sharp features, and shiny consumptive skin, I groaned inwardly. Can there be no Peace Society to check this terrible carnage? Dolorosus, rather than have a child of mine die, as I have recently heard of a child dying, insane from sheer overwork, and raving of algebra, I would have her come no nearer to the splendors of science than the man in the French play, who brings away from school only the general impression that two and two make five for a creditor and three for a debtor.

Boys hold out better than girls, partly because they are not so docile in school, partly because they are allowed to be more active out of it, and so have more recuperative power. But who has not seen some delicate girl, after five consecutive hours spent over French and Latin and Algebra, come home to swallow an indigestible dinner, and straightway settle down again to spend literally every waking hour out of the twenty-four in study, save those scanty moiltimes,—protracting the labor, it may be, far into the night, till the weary eyes close unwillingly over the state or the lexicon,—then to bed, to be vexed by troubled dreams, instead of being wrapt in the sunny slumber of childhood,—waking unrefreshed, to be reproached by parents and friends with the nervous irritability which this detestable routine has created? For I never that parents are more exacting than even teachers. It is outrageous to heap it all upon the pedagogues, as if they were the only apostolical successors of him whom Charles Lamb lauded "the much calumniated good King Herod." What mother in decent society, I ask you, who is not delighted to have her little girl devote even Wednesday and Saturday afternoons to additional tasks in drawing and music, rather than run the risk of having her make a noise somewhere, or possibly even soil her dress? Papa himself will far more readily appropriate ten dollars to this additional confinement than fire to the gymnasium or the riding-school. And so, beset with snares on every hand, the poor little well-educated thing can only pray the prayer recorded of a despairing child brought up in the best society,—that she might "die and go to heaven and play with the Irish children on Saturday afternoons."

And the Sunday Schools co-operate with the week-day seminaries in the pious work of destruction. Dolorosus, already your friends and neighbors herd at work in committing to memory Scripture texts for a wager,—I have an impression, however, that they call it a prize,—consisting of one Bible! In my circle of society, the excitement runs high. From inquiry, I find the state of the field to be about as follows:—Fanny Hustings, who won the prize last year, is not to be entered for it again; she damaged her memory by the process, her teacher tells me, so that she can now scarcely fix the simplest lesson in her mind. Carry Blake had got up to five thousand verses, but had such a terrible headache that her mother compelled her to stop some weeks ago; the texts have all vanished from her brain, but the headache unfortunately still lingers. Nelly Sanborn has reached six thousand, although her anxious father has long since tried to buy her off by ordering her a new Bible twice as handsome as the prize one: but what did she care for that? she said; she had handsome Bibles already, but she had no intention of being beaten by Ella Prentiss. Poor child, we see no chance for her: for Ella has it all her own way; she has made up a score of seven thousand, one hundred texts, and it is only three days to the fatal Sunday. Between ourselves, I think Nellie does her work more fairly; for Ella has a marvelous ingenuity in picking out easy verses, like Jack Horner's plums, and alluding every sacred sentence, not by its subject, but by its shortness. Still, she is bound to win.

"How is Fanny Bealth this summer," I asked her mother the other day.

"Well, her verses weigh on her," said the good woman, solemnly.

I will only add that our Sunday School Superintendent, who is a physician, told me that he had as strong objections to the whole thing as I could have; but that it was no use talking; all the other schools did it, and our must; emulation was the order of the day.

Do but misunderstand me. The supposed object in the case is a good one, just as the object in week-day schools is a good one—to communicate valuable knowledge and develop the powers of the mind. The defect in policy, in both cases, appears to be, that it tot fly defeats its own aim, renders the employments hateful that should be delightful, and sacrifices the whole powers, so far as its influence goes, without any equivalent. All excess defeats itself. I do not object to the severest quantity of study for boys or girls;—while their brains work, let them work in earnest. But I do object to this immoderate and terrific quantity. I cut down every school, public and private, to five hours' total work per diem for the oldest children, and four for the younger ones, and they will accomplish more in the end than you ever saw them do in six or seven. The worst danger of it is, that the moral is written at the end of the fable, not the beginning. The organization in youth is so dangerously elastic, that the result of these intellectual excesses is not seen up till years after. One of the most admirable passages in the Report of Dr. Ray, already mentioned, is that in which he explains, that, though any study or school is rare y the immediate cause of insanity, it is the most frequent of its ulterior causes, except hereditary tendencies. "It diminishes the conservative power of the animal economy to such a degree, that attacks of disease, which otherwise would have passed off safely, destroy life almost before danger is anticipated lottery has made one man an idiot, started another on the road to ruin, and crazed a third.—A terrible price for one prize, certainly.

GAS.—We learn from the American Gas Light Journal that there are 245 gas-light companies in the United States, with an aggregate capital of $40,000,000. The price of gas ranges from $2 50 to $7 per thousand feet. There are but comparatively few instances, however, where the price exceeds $4, and when it is above that sum resin or some other expensive article is used for the generation of the gas. Mr. David Melville of Newport, R. I., is said to have been the first person to introduce gas-light into this country. In the year 1812 he lighted his residence in Newport, a factory in Pawtucket, and Beaver Tail Lighthouse in this way.

Democratic Corruption.

Wherever a general quarrel breaks out between the different wings of the Democracy, the public is sure to be treated to the most wholesome exposures of dishonesty and corruption of that party. The California canvass now in progress is especially rich in these revelations, and the country is overrun with the evidence of the rottenness and rascality that run riot in the high places of democracy. We subjoin brief extracts from the speeches of Senator Broderick and Mr. McKibbin, made before large public meetings in California.

[From Broderick's Speech.]

I do not support a house at an expense of twenty-five thousand dollars a year, as my colleague does. The Emperor Napoleon does not live in any greater magnificence than does Dr. Gwin at Washington. It is true that his style of living has excited a great deal of comment, for the people will persist in inquiring where Dr. Gwin gets the money wherewith to keep up so expensive an establishment.

There accuse Dr. Gwin of having been the paid agent of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. [Tumultuous cheering and cries of "That's true!" and "By——, we all know it!"]

THE LIME POINT BUSINESS.

My colleague (Gwin) and Messrs. Denver and Weller were anxious to secure an appropriation of $200,000 for the purchase of the Lime Point property. You will recollect that my predecessor, now the Governor of this State, wrote two remarkable letters upon this subject. Doubtless you have all seen them. They will be found in the report of my Placerville speech. Dr. Gwin made a statement to the effect that this property would not sell less than $200,000. Mr. Fessenden, a Senator from Maine, replied to Dr. Gwin, stating that he was a member of the Military Committee at the time, and that no such understanding was had when the appropriation was made. My confident belief is, fellow-citizens, that Dr. Gwin and Governor Weller were both interested parties, or else they never would have taken the trouble that they did to urge the payment of $200,000 to the owner of this property, when they knew that a sufficient amount of land whereon to erect the contemplated fortification was not worth over five or six thousand dollars.

More accessions of Young Men to the Republican Ranks.

Almost every week we hear of accessions of the talented and influential young men of our county to our ranks. We are gratified to announce that T. R. Simonton, Esq., of Camden, law partner of Mr. Smart, has signified his intention to act hereafter with the Republican party. While still maintaining the friendly relations heretofore existing between him and his partner, Col. Smart, he has nevertheless felt it his duty to sever his connection with the democratic party, and act with the Republican party. He says he became satisfied at the last democratic State Convention, that the party, in enunciating its popular sovereignty doctrines, was not actuated by any desire for the success of those principles, but merely adopted them to serve a temporary expedient. Mr. Simonton is a gentleman of ability, candor and influence, and will prove a valuable accession to the Republican ranks in this county. The Republican boys all round will be glad to extend to him the right hand of fellowship.—Belfast Age.

"Our Adopted Fellow Citizens,"

Who have been asked by the hunker organs to agonize over the "Two Years Amendment" in Massachusetts, will be interested to learn that PRECISELY THE SAME PROVISION WAS ADOPTED IN THE DEMOCRATIC STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA in 1856. So it seems that it is "democratic," after all, to require a naturalized citizen to reside two years in a State before he is allowed to vote.

The Resolutions of the Maine Democracy Endorsed at the South.

The Richmond Enquirer, Gov. Wise's organ, declares in reference to the resolutions of the Modern Democracy of Maine, that—"no resolutions of southern growth exceed, and none of northern production at all approach the resolves of the Maine Democracy in their manly, straight forward, and uncompromising assertion of 'Southern Rights.'"

Voters of Maine! Will you go with a party whose principles are thus endorsed by a slaveholding politician as EQUAL TO ANY RESOLUTIONS OF SOUTHERN GROWTH!

Remember that MANASSEH H. SMITH is a supporter of the Buchanan administration—and that the platform on which he stands IS ENDORSED BY GOVERNOR WISE OF VIRGINIA. A vote for Manasseh H. Smith is therefore a vote for Lecomptonism and Slavery.

An Absurd Position.

The Augusta Age says that when Mr. Douglas takes the position that slaves may be constitutionally carried to a Territory by their masters, he only means that they may be carried there under the Constitution, but cannot be held after crossing the Territorial lines, unless the Territorial Legislature permits it. This is equivalent to saying that the Constitution of the United States is not the paramount law of the land—that a Territorial Legislature may subvert a privilege or a right guaranteed to slaveholders by the National Constitution. Is this the position of Mr. Douglas?—or are his northern organs so hard pushed for a defence of his pro-slavery position as to enunciate a manifest absurdity? Either the Constitution sustains slavery in the Territories, or it does not. If it does, then no Territorial Legislature—nay, no State Legislature—can exclude slavery, either directly or indirectly.

Messrs. Wheeler & Lynde:

My attention has been called to an editorial article in the Daily Union of this morning from which the following is an extract:

FREE NOTION. We notice by the advertising columns of the Whig that the Board of Aldermen will be in session at the Aldermen's Room, in the City Hall in said City, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the 8th, 9th and 10th days of September instant, from 9 o'clock A. M. to 4 o'clock P. M. on each of said days, to correct the lists of said voters.

We give the above notice gratis inasmuch as the City Clerk considered it necessary to lay the election warrant before Republican readers only.

The generous liberality of the Union in giving the above "notice," though doubtless well intended, is in its effect, an injury rather than a benefit to the readers of the Union, inasmuch as it informs them that the Board of Aldermen will be in session all day until 10 o'clock P. M. on each of said days; whereas the fact is that one o'clock P. M. is the hour of adjournment.

I was surprised at the statement that the City Clerk considered it necessary to lay the election warrant before Republican readers only," because the editor of the Union, being an Alderman himself, and having signed said warrant, which was directed to the City Constable to be posted in the several wards according to law, must have been aware that it had been thus placed before all readers. And besides, as it has been published according to the usual practice in such cases, in the leading democratic newspaper in the city, it would seem that it was "laid before" other than "Republican readers."

GEO. W. SNOW.

To the Editor of the Whig:—Certain publications which have been made, in reference to my compensation as Commissioner of the State, at Washington, are thought by my friends to require some notice by me.

In March, 1858, the Legislature passed a Resolve changing the pay of my office, so that, instead of being absolute, so much per diem and so much for travelling, it was made contingent upon the allowance of our claims against the United States, the rate being left to be fixed by the Governor and Council.

Before the separation of the Council in the Spring of 1858, and as I understand it, on the last day of their session, at that time, action was had upon it, in the form of a Report of a Committee of the Council, which is now on file in the State Department.

This report recommends that there be paid to the Commissioner at Washington, the several rates of per-centage, ranging from ten to twenty-five per cent, which are set down opposite the various claims, a very careful enumeration of which was made. The report is in ink, with the exception of the figures of the per-centage, which are in pencil. It appears from statements which have been made to me by several Councillors of 1858, that the report was, in fact, made in blank, the rates being filled in subsequently, after an interchange of opinion at the Council board, by the whole Council. I was in Washington at the time of the passage of the Resolve referred to, and so remained until the July following. I was not consulted about the rates, and did not, in fact, understand accurately what they were, until my return to Maine, at the end of the 1st Session of the 35th Congress.

I was naturally desirous to know what rates were established, and at my request, my father, resident in the same city with the Governor, called upon him to ascertain the rates immediately after they were fixed. Gov. Morrill gave to my father the desired information from recollection, adding that he had not formally approved what had been done, in order to give me an opportunity to show that the rates were too low, if it was in my power to do so, but that I might rely upon rates at least as high as were set down in the report of the Council.

It is only justice to the Governor, to observe, that he states in reference to this conversation, that he had in view the particular claims then pending in Congress, and not the Massachusetts war claim, which had not been the subject of any recent discussion. I can easily conceive that this may have been so, and I do not doubt that the matter was and is precisely as the Governor states it, as to the claims he intended to refer to; but so it was, that his statement was communicated to me without qualification, nor was any qualification intimated to me, until after the allowance of the Massachusetts war claim.

During the 1st Session of the 35th Congress, that is to say, in June, 1858, four of the claims, as set down in the schedule of the Council, were allowed by Congress. Upon three of these claims, the scheduled rate was 10 per cent, and upon one of them 12 per cent. Precisely these rates were directed to be paid to me, and have been paid to me.

The rates upon the first three of these claims I did not object to, but admitted them to be high enough. The 12 per cent rate, upon the extra interest claim (so called) I knew to be too low, looking either to the slenderness and doubtful nature of the claim, (no similar one having ever been allowed in the history of the government,) or to my necessary and legitimate expenditures in procuring its allowance and payment. Entertaining these views, I made very great efforts by representations of myself and of persons acquainted with the difficulties of business at Washington, to induce the Council to raise this particular rate, but without success, the reply being that the schedule as fixed in March must be adhered to. And it was adhered to, in respect to all the claims allowed in June, 1858.

Last winter, the Massachusetts War Claim was allowed, but my right to the scheduled rate of 25 per cent was and is denied by a portion of the Council, upon the single ground, that the scheduling of March, 1858, was at most, only in the nature of a proposition to me, and that there had been no such acceptance of it by me, as would make it an obligatory contract upon the State. And it was said, that so far from accepting the proposition made, I must be regarded as having refused to accept it, because I had made an attempt, although unsuccessful, to induce an increase of the scheduled rate upon the extra interest claim. If there is any other ground, upon which my right to 25 per cent, upon the Massachusetts War Claim, as a matter of contract, is denied, it has never been communicated to me.

I can only affirm, that in proceeding to procure the allowance of the Massachusetts War Claim, I regarded my commissions as fully fixed at 25 per cent., and I deny, without qualification, that I ever assented that the adjustment of rates should be discretionary with the State, after the allowance of claims, or that any such suggestion was ever made, either to me or by me.

That portion of the Executive who believed that no contract existed, were, of course, obliged to fix a rate to be allowed, according to their best judgment, upon the evidence thus far exhibited in the case, and I have no disposition to impeach either the intelligence or integrity of their conduct.

No contract made by the State is legally enforceable, and in this case it may truly be said, that the official assent of the Governor was never given to the action of March, 1858. So, too, in point of strict law, it may be questionable to what extent the Council of 1859 is bound by the action of the Council of 1858. I pretermit all these points of discussion, as, after all, I have no other remedy than an appeal to the justice of those who are and may be in political authority.

The truth really is, that my connection with this Massachusetts claim has been the greatest pecuniary misfortune I ever suffered, and, in an active life, now not short, I have suffered a good many. Under the turn which things have taken, although the authorities of Maine are not alone responsible for it, I have not received a compensation equal to my actual, proper, legitimate, and (in my judgment) necessary expenditures in the transaction, leaving me oppressed with honorary obligations, and without any reward for my time and labor, except being made an object of thoughtless and ill-informed misrepresentations. I reproach nobody, as I know well that the public, as well as men in public authority, must decide upon facts as they appear, not as they exist; but I must be pardoned for saying that I have not received in this matter the treatment which I endeavored to deserve.

GEO. M. WESTON.

A Democratic Row—One Man Shot, another Stabbed—Outrage on a Newspaper.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7. There was considerable disturbance last evening at some of the Tammany primary elections. The excitement was intense in the 22d Ward, where preparations for a general fight had been made and two cart loads of stones and other missiles collected at the polling place. The police interfered and prevented a general outbreak, but after the election a fracas occurred between two politicians, which resulted in the shooting of Johnson Heagan, and the stabbing of Patrick O'Brien.

Last night at a late hour a party of three men, evidently Dead Rabbits, entered the press room of Williams & Co., in Spring street, and in the presence of some dozen persons, attached to the press room, smashed the form of the Anti-Slavery Standard, and made good their escape. It is supposed their object was to break up the forms of the Spirit of the Times, which is printed in the same office, so that it could not be issued to-day.

THE NORTHWESTERN BOUNDARY DIFFICULTY.—The Washington correspondent of the Tribune says the points of the controversy between us and Great Britain, so far as General Harney's course in Oregon is concerned, are stated in a trustworthy quarter as follows: That the island of San Juan, east of the old recognized channel has been occupied as a sort of common ground by Americans and by a party of the British Hudson's Bay Company, which company has now no legal existence; that some difference has arisen between the above named parties, and at the request of the Americans, General Harney has interposed with a small number of troops to decide a matter that properly pertains to the jurisdiction of the British and American commissioners, now on the ground or near it, who are charged with the duty of running the boundary line. It is not supposed that anything like hostilities will grow out of the affair, but it seems that we now have assumed the position usually taken by the British. We have occupied a territory in dispute as a preliminary to negotiations.

The New York correspondent of the Richmond Whig says that the Hon. Daniel S. Dickerson cried when Gov. Wise's letter was exposed to him. Ah, Daniel you are a very tender-hearted old gentleman, but if the whole Democracy of the nation were to weep and moan over each other's political aberrations, the voice of their lamentations would drown all other sounds of earth and air, and their tears would in time be sufficient to make a great salt lake as big as Brigham Young's.—Louisville Journal.

The total number of houses in Boston in 1738 was about 3,000, of which 1,000 were of brick and the rest of wood, and the population, after a settlement of nearly 100 years, amounted to only 12,000. Now, the number of buildings is probably upwards of 16,000, while the population is in the neighborhood of 175,000.

An animated discussion, involving the relative Hygienic properties of Bourbon and Cognac, was held on one of the portices of the Burnett House, Cincinnati, a day or two since. Finally, as a clincher, the Bourbon man cited Col. —— of Lexington, who had drank pure Bourbon since he was fifteen, and drank it steadily; he was now sixty years old, hale and hearty. But the champion of Cognac retorted, "That's nothing to what Napoleon did. He drank Cognac every day of his life, and died at St. Helena at the age of ninety-six!" [illegible]

BOLD ROBBERY. On Saturday last, between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock, the store of Messrs. Clarke & Co. was entered by some one, who abstracted from the safe all the bank bills from the pocket book, and three boxes containing specie, the whole amounting to a number of hundred dollars. The boldness of this affair consisted in its being done while the proprietors of the store were present.—Portland Adv.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald says:

It is contradicted to-day that the invitation to Douglas to speak in Ohio came from the State Committee. On the contrary, Douglas offered to speak, and that body refused a general invitation, but permitted Senator Pugh to invite him to join him in speeches at Columbus on Wednesday next, and at Cincinnati shortly after. It is said that Gov. Wise is expected to be present at the Columbus meeting, and that he will [illegible]

It is officially reported to the Emperor of the French that chloroform was used in 30,000 surgical operations in the Crimea, by skilled assistant-surgeons without a single death; a similar success has followed its administration at Solferino and Magenta; but in English hospitals there have been about 100 deaths in one-third of this number of operations in the Crimea.

A building 400 feet square, and 40 feet from the base to the roof, has been erected in Houston Texas, constructed of material which is composed of sand, shells and cement, which forms a wall of a solidity equal to stone. It looks as solid and durable as if made of granite, and costs less than if constructed of wood.

DIED:

In Camden, Sept. 3d, Mary Stickney, eldest daughter of Edward and Elizabeth Cushing, aged 9 years 6 months, 11 days.

In the death of this unusually interesting and lovely child, the most devoted of parents have been called to pass through a distressing sorrow. But the consciousness that she has departed "to be with Christ," and is now living with Him, waiting in joy their coming, alleviates the pain of a temporary separation, and but strengthens the ties of an undying affection. Sincere is the sympathy felt in the entire community for the bereaved, as manifested at the funeral solemnities; and affecting was the scene in the last sad offices of burial, as her young companions one by one dropped the tear of affection with their floral offering upon the earthly remains of this tender lamb of the flock, gone home to the great and good Shepherd.—Com.

Zurich Conference.

A flame telegram of 24th says, according to intelligence from Zurich the French and Austrian Plenipotentiaries had regulated the settlement of affairs at Lombardy, with the consent of Sardinian Plenipotentiaries, and that the arrangement is expected to be confirmed by the different sovereigns.

The affairs of the Duchies was to be treated of directly between the courts of Paris and Vienna.

The French and Sardinian representatives were in consultation on 24th. Count Colloredo the Austrian representative, had a slight attack of apoplexy the same day, but soon recovered.

The impression prevailed that the Conference would be successfully concluded early in September.

Austria is said to have modified her instructions.

Britain.

Nothing of political importance.

Potato blight is said to be committing considerable ravages in some parts of Ireland.

Considerable interest had been evinced at Liverpool on a trotting race which took place near that place, in which several celebrated American horses, including Jack Rossites, Mountain Boy, and Dreadnought, were engaged. The race was won easily by English horse named "Daw" in two three mile heats, much to the surprise and joy of crowds assembled as it was considered a certainty for Americans. Large numbers of Americans were on the course. American horses attained 2d, 3d and 4th places in a field of seven horses.

Ten Broeck's American two year old colt won two more races at Stockton; is a prominent favorite for next year's Derby.

Latest.

London, Saturday.—The Daily news city article, dated Friday evening, says funds to-day were slightly better. The improvement of one-eighth in consols, which took place Thursday, has been lost. The supply of money continues in excess of the demand. Best bills having 60 days to run, were taken to-day at 2¼. Foreign exchanges generally steady.

Grand Duke Constantine of Russia is in London and visited Crystal Palace yesterday.

Calcutta mails July 15, and Hong Kong 6th have arrived. News generally anticipated.

Political news from China unimportant. Tea market tended downward.

France.

French camp at St. Maur entirely broken up. It is understood that at the approaching councils of Departments the subject of free trade will be fully discussed, and that known views of the Emperor in its favor will meet due consideration.

The Paris hospitals have inherited under will of Lord Henry Seymour, thirty-six thousand pounds per annum.

Liberals in France are represented as disappointed at the number of eminent men who decline availing themselves of amnesty. Their presence in France would, it is contended, be advantageous to the cause of liberty.

Italy.

The object of the defensive league between the provisional governments of Tuscany and Bologna, and dictator of Modena is stated to prevent restoration of fallen governments, maintain internal order and lay down basis of assimilation in institutions.

Garibaldi had reviewed army of Modena.

The London Times strongly urges the Tuscans to be prepared to resist Austrian aggressions, even if they have to fight, and points to Garibaldi as a noble champion for them of the Washington school.

The Council of Ministers, at Turin, at which the King of Sardinia presided, had decided, that before acceptance, even provisionally, of Provinces which desire to be annexed to Piedmont, it was proper to consult the allied powers, particularly France.

A number of distinguished Venicians have been sent as representatives to the European powers, and had issued long addresses, in which they say the conduct of Austria has not changed since the peace.

Austria.

Letters from Vienna express apprehensions that difficulties on the Italian question will not be settled at Zurich, and give a report that the furlough granted to Austrian soldiers returning from Italy had been suspended, and that seventy-out of twelve Austrian corps de armee are to be retained on a war footing.

The Augsburg Gazette says that the Austrian military school are to be completely reorganized on the model of those in France.

The Austrian frigate Novara, accompanied by the Austrian squadron, arrived at Trieste on the 26th.

Prussia.

The Berlin correspondent of the Times says, owing to the completion of affairs in Italy, the Prussian government is favorable to a European Congress, as it would be an acknowledgment that France and Austria are arbitrators of Europe, if such weighty questions are allowed to be decided by the Zurich Conference.

Russia.

The Cabinet at St. Petersburg is said to be divided on the Italian question. The German party oppose the independence of Italy, while the Emperor and a small minority manifest more liberal sentiments.

India and China.

The Calcutta and China mails telegraphed by South Briton, would reach Liverpool on the 27th, but it was feared too late for the Europa.

The first disease is produced by inattention to the digestive organs, which are so susceptible of derangement Thousands are now suffering the penalty of this neglect and suffering daily the most trying pains, almost, without a hope of relief They have come to believe that their affliction is incurable, and that they must bear it to the end, Regardless of exceedingly to announce to these afflicted individuals that they are not remediless, that a single, unquestionable potency and virtue, which has never been found to fail in all cases of digestive weakness or derangement Hundreds of prominent men, ready to grow eloquent in praise of this wonderful conqueror of dyspepsia, which is known as
